

SO WHOLE NETS MILLIONS

SOLID SOUTH TO KEEP STRENGTH G. O. P. MEET

Convention June 10 at Cleveland.

W. H. HARRIS SEARS HENNING.
Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—What the Johnson forces promptly dubbed the "seam roller" made his appearance in the Republican national committee today and defended out all opposition to the program of the Coolidge managers and their supporters.

After voting to hold the national convention in Cleveland, beginning on June 10, instead of in Chicago, because of the Coolidge managers' fear of Johnson and Louden influence in Illinois, the committee rescinded its previously approved reform of convention representation, increasing instead of reducing the rotten borough delegate strength of the solid south.

1,100 Delegates Instead of 984.
Rejecting the apportionment devised in 1921, which would have reduced southern representation twenty-three votes net, the committee adopted a reapportionment plan giving the south eighteen more delegates than in 1920. At the same time the total representation of states outside the solid south was increased 107. There will be 1,100 delegates in the 1934 convention, compared with 984 in 1920.

It is charged by friends of Senator Johnson (Rep., Cal.) that the committee's reversal was due to the desire of the Coolidge managers to increase the number of delegates from states outside the solid south.

Of the fifty-three members of the national committee, forty-six are either committed or friendly to the candidacy of the President for the nomination.

Some Political Feinings.
According to the Johnson camp the reapportionment of the delegates to reduce southern representation and to increase it, instead of following a series of deals with the colored, Republican forces in the south, whereby Henry Lincoln Johnson regains recognition as national committeeman for Georgia, Perry Howard is recognized in Mississippi, and the appointment of Walter Cohen as collector of the port of New Orleans is reached.

These charges are hotly denied by the friends of President Coolidge, who remind the Johnsonites that the committee also increased the representation outside the south 107 votes, in parts of the country which the Coolidge camp predicts he will sweep.

The committee, it is asserted, acted as a result of the violent protests of southern Republicans against reduction of representation.

Here's New Apportionment.
The apportionment of delegates in 1934, compared with 1920, follows:

How It Was Done.
The committee's "reversal" as opposition was effected through a switch by Senator Pepper (Rep., Pa.) providing that each state should have two delegates at large for each senator and representative at large, three additional delegates at large if the state sent Republican in 1920, one additional delegate from each district casting 10,000 or more Republican votes in 1920.

Under this plan Illinois and most other northern states gain three delegates each. Massachusetts gains four, Tennessee, which went Republican for the first time in 1920, gains 7. Senator Howell (Rep.) fought the Pepper plan but was overruled. The Pepper plan had been agreed on.

U. S. GRAND JURY SEEKS BEER BATTLE CAUSES

County Police Called as Witnesses.

An independent double barreled investigation promising to break up the beer business in northern Illinois will be begun today by the federal grand jury.

After attempts by city, county, and federal officials to cope with the beer runners, District Attorney Edwin A. Olson yesterday declared his intention of getting definite results.

The plan includes three objectives: One is the bringing of contempt of court proceedings against the brewers who are making beer with alcoholic content of more than 1/2 of 1 per cent. Practically all suspected brewers are under federal injunction. Contempt of court is punishable by a year in jail and a fine.

Plans Trials for Bribery.
Another end sought by Mr. Olson is the bringing of an early trial any agent or official indicted by the jury for accepting bribes from the beer runners. The final objective will be an investigation of a report that some of the Cook county highway police are in league with beer runners and have given protection to beer convoys.

Mr. Olson stated that there is no intention at present of having assistance from the sheriff or police department. With the aid of the department of justice, special investigators will be sent to the department, and prohibition department, the district attorney believes he has sufficient force to accomplish his objects.

Highway Patrolmen Called.
Subpoenas were served yesterday on Sgt. Harold Demman, a son of Maj. Albert Demman, former chief of the highway police; Richard Egan, 340 South Campbell street, brother of William Egan, recently killed in the beer war; and Martin Brandt, 1130 South Arden street.

Although only three are to be called before the jury today, Mr. Olson stated that a preliminary inquiry would be made on which to base the indictment of a large number of subpoena.

The grand jury will receive a special charge to lift the operations of several breweries in Joliet, Peru, La Salle, Elgin, Ottawa, and West Hammond, now under permanent injunction.

If evidence is obtained of the manufacture of real beer, contempt proceedings will be instituted against the officials.

While the federal attorney was setting the governmental machinery in motion, "Diamond Joe" Esposito, proprietor of the Bella Napoli cafe, 850 South Halsted street, was being fined $1,499 by Judge James H. Wilkeson for violation of the dry law. Esposito pleaded guilty.

Shakedown Combines Broken.
James J. Haggerty, a former prohibition agent living at 1210 Princeton avenue, and Claude Koonits, 3807 Broadway, were found guilty by a jury in Federal Judge Lindley's court on a charge of extortion and impersonation of federal officers. Charles Partlow, a co-defendant, was found not guilty.

With the conviction of Haggerty and Koonits, prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Charles L. Swanson, federal officials have broken up a $125,000 "shakedown" combine.

ASSAIL HOFFMAN'S POLICE
Sheriff Hoffman has usurped his powers in creating the county highway police. It was charged before Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday by Henry A. Berger, attorney for the county board. Mr. Berger argued the men should be civil service employees under the direction of the county superintendent of highways.

Sullivan was brought in the name of Edward Szabo, a taxpayer, to take the control of the highway police from the sheriff.

Mr. Berger, in behalf of the county board, signified its attitude as interfering the suit.

"The law is clear that the sheriff has no police patrol power," Mr. Berger said. "The law is equally clear in vesting the right of police power with the superintendent of highways. It is his duty to patrol and maintain the roads, not Sheriff Hoffman's."

"Should the court agree with our contention, an entirely new body of highway policemen will be created. Civil service examinations will be held and the most efficient men chosen. They will be under the supervision of George Quinlan, superintendent of highways."

If successful, the move will take the eighty highway policemen from the patronage list of the sheriff.

The sheriff's lawyer will reply today.

SON, 42, SHOTS MOTHER DOWN AS SHE GREETES HIM

Here, mother, great father, son, as he entered the rear door of her home at 5621 South Marshfield avenue last night.

A gray haired woman rose to meet him, and the son fired his revolver. The bullet passed through Mrs. Sotek's head, wounding her so dangerously that physicians at the Germania Deaconess Hospital doubt she will live.

Capt. Sotek and his wife have lived in their parents' home ever since their marriage fifteen months ago. Yesterday, the police learned, the son, Sotek, asked her daughter-in-law to find a separate flat. The younger woman was willing, but her husband was not. The shooting was the result.

Antone Sotek took the revolver away from his son.

"Go out and commit suicide before you are hanged," he said, and the younger Sotek made some remark about "getting" his wife first. A squad of detectives under Lieut. John Farrell is searching for him.

ONLY A SING SING BLENDS COMEDY SO WITH TRAGEDY
Oshing, N. Y., Dec. 12.—(Special).—Three men lived forty-five minutes longer tonight when a musical comedy adjoining their flat's musical comedy was being given. When the last note of the comedy had died out the lives of three condemned convicts based out also at five minute intervals.

The comedy was "Oh, Lady, Lady," put on by the prison's welfare league, all its players being convicts.

The tragedy characters were Abraham Breker of the Bronx and George Hacker of Birmingham, who, says, and Harry Bartlett, who killed a man.

They were to have died at 11 o'clock, but all the electric power of the prison's plant was needed for the footlights and border lights in the comedy.

So the three men had to wait until the curtain was rung down and the current for the comedy was switched to its tragic death house outlets.

ALBERT'S FLAIL ROILS COUNCIL

Scores Woodhull for Use of Police Autos.

Even administration officials admitted last night that the council rebuked Albert Arthur Albert (43d) for questioning the right of Ald. Roscoe Woodhull (71st), chairman of the finance committee, to use a $4,500 police limousine with a policeman chauffeur.

The car is one of ten, authorized by the council only after weeks of haggling over a selection of models and which the council was told would be used by the finance committee.

Draws Explosive Threats.
Demanding to know why, if the finance committee chairman needed an expensive automobile, its purchase was hidden in an authorization for purchases for the police department, Albert drew upon himself new threats of expulsion from the council.

John S. Clark (19th) introduced a resolution censuring Albert's attack and vindictive Woodhull's use of the car.

"Censure me if you will," shouted Ald. Albert, "but you can't shut me up. I voted for automobiles for the police department when Ald. Barker (16th) told us that crime was rampant."

But he voted to pass the Clark censure resolution.

Also Sympathizes, but—
So did Ald. Thomas O. Wallace (44th), who asserted a few minutes before that, "I think Albert's criticism is just in a large measure."

"But what could he do?" asked one of the aldermen after the shouting was over and forty-four, all the aldermen present, had voted to lambaste Albert.

"We've got to go before the finance committee in a few days with requests for appropriations. It's too bad Albert had to pick out the finance committee."

BLIZZARD COVERS SOUTHWEST; NINE FROZEN TO DEATH
Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 12.—Five persons, three women and two children, were found frozen to death today at Blue Ranch Springs, about fifty miles southeast of Albuquerque. They perished in one of the worst blizzards that has swept over that section in many years.

The party was traveling in two wagons loaded with wood and a few household effects. They are said to have attempted to build a fire with the wood in their wagons, but were unsuccessful, due to the high wind.

Two boys and a Negro were frozen to death near Clovis, N. M., and a man died of exposure in southeastern Arizona.

HERO OF DOUBLE RADIO TRAGEDY DIES; LEAVES 6

A six weeks' fight to save the life of Andrew Osminkowski, who tried vainly to rescue two radio enthusiasts from electrocution, was lost yesterday afternoon in Swedish Covenant hospital. Osminkowski died following a grafting operation upon his upper lip last Tuesday.

Osminkowski, 41 years old and the father of six children, lived at 3442 Wilson avenue. On the afternoon of Oct. 27 his neighbor, Albert F. Gospienger, and a friend, William J. Quinn, were erecting an aerial in the rear of Gospienger's home when a high-voltage cable of the Commonwealth Edison company came in contact with the radio wires. Osminkowski saw the two men writhing under the current and, rushing over, attempted to drag Quinn away from the wire.

In appreciation of Osminkowski's heroism Dr. Oscar T. Roberg donated his services and the hospital cut its usual rates in two.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(Special.)—Insurgent Republicans and Farmer-Labor senators allied themselves with the Democrats to-day and came within an eyelash of electing a Democrat, Senator Cummins (Rep., Ia.).

They failed, by one vote because of a tie. Senator Bruce (Dem., Md.) went over to the Republican side at the decisive moment and cast his ballot for Senator Cummins. Some of the Democrats were indignant at Senator Bruce, and issued a statement justifying his move on the ground that it was time for the Democrats to quit playing into the hands of the La Follette-Magnus Johnson-Brookhart radicals.

Deadlock Still On.

The deadlock, therefore, continues. It cannot be broken before Monday. After three ballots had been taken Senator Lodge (Rep., Mass.), Republican leader, moved an adjournment until Saturday. There is an understanding that his routine business will be transacted on Saturday and that the election of the interstate commerce committee chairman will go over until Monday.

What the outcome will be is difficult to predict. Some senators thought Senator Bruce's example would be followed by several other conservative Democrats on Monday and the election of Senator Cummins would result. On the first ballot today—the seventh on the deadlock—four of the insurgents, Senators Brookhart (Rep., Ia.), Senator Frazier (Rep., N. D.), Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor, Minn.), Senator Magnus Johnson (Farmer-Labor, Minn.), quit voting for Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.) and cast their votes for Senator Smith (Rep., N. D.).

On the second ballot, Senator Lodge went over to the Democrats, giving them 53, Smith 41, La Follette 2. There was considerable commotion on the third ballot when Senator McCormack (Rep., Ill.), who had been voting for Cummins, cast his ballot for Senator Watson (Rep., Ind.). Before a result was announced, however, Senator McCormack transferred his vote back to Senator Cummins. The final ballot gave Cummins 40, Smith 41, and La Follette 2.

WIFE, "CAST OUT," DRINKS POISON; FIGHTS TO LIVE

A woman who declares she is Mrs. Robert E. Abbott, 25 years old, wife of a bond salesman and daughter-in-law of William L. Abbott, chief operating engineer of the Commonwealth Edison company, was in the American hospital last night fighting the effects of poison.

Motorcycle policeman had found her walking dazedly toward the lake in the vicinity of Cornelia street. She told them she took the poison after her husband, returning from a cabaret party, had abused her and ordered her from the house.

Abbott was divorced recently by his first wife, who charged him with misconduct. His mother was surprised to learn he had married again.

WILLIAM L. ABBOTT, 44, 5704 Cornelia avenue, dropped dead at Major avenue and Irving Park boulevard yesterday morning.

HUNT COUPLE, HINT TRIANGLE CAUSED SHOOTING

(Picture on back page.) While Gustaf C. Spengler, wealthy real estate dealer, who was shot late Tuesday night, was fighting for his life yesterday in the Swedish Covenant hospital, detectives began a search for Mr. and Mrs. Max Herman, who lived until recently at 2615 Potwysie place.

Spengler's sister, Margaret and Catherine, told the police the wounded man and the Hermans were friends until Herman became jealous and accused Spengler. Spengler was attacked and beaten as he was leaving his office at 2405 Lawrence avenue.

One sister said Herman threatened to kill her brother, later demanding cancellation of notes for a total of $4,000. That was refused.

FESTIVE SWEDEN WELCOMES ROYAL HONEYMOONERS

(Copyright, 1933, By The Chicago Tribune.) STOCKHOLM, Dec. 12.—Crown Prince Gustave and Crown Princess Louise received a big welcome when they arrived here yesterday after their honeymoon. The city will hold a three-day celebration with banquets, gala performances at the Royal opera, dancing in public halls and restaurants and other events.

When the train bearing the royal couple arrived it was given a salute of twenty-one guns. Great crowds created the newsworthy, cheering and waving flags and handkerchiefs. The couple proceeded through the main streets in an old state carriage, over which an airplane hovered.

At the castle on the hill Roy and Girl Scouts greeted Princess Louise with songs of welcome. The king and queen greeted the couple in the yellow dining room of the castle.

A Te Deum was celebrated in the royal chapel in the presence of all the government ministers.

During the night the region about the castle was black with people, while all the streets and squares blazed with thousands of electric lights. Large crowds assembled under the windows of the royal couple, singing hymns and popular songs.

JUDGE N. L. JONES
an "odds on" favor.

Design, the Brennan's Choice.

In the midst of the debate George W. Brennan, president of the Democratic Union, replied to the charges by saying that Judge Jones was his personal choice. He emphasized the fact that the organization was still to act on the several candidates, but that he would always had his own way in organization matters. But his statement was considered a big boost for the Jones candidacy.

The decision of the committee was to hold the state advisory committee in Springfield on Jan. 14. The delegates will be selected by the 103 county central committees, representation being on the basis of one delegate for every 400 votes cast for Lewis for governor in 1928, each county having at least one delegate. The advisory committee will produce a convention of between 1,700 and 1,800 delegates. The Cook county delegation

"If you want to dig the grave of the Democratic ticket," he said, "put this resolution over."

It came from Ernest F. Rought of Carthage and James H. Elliott of Danville, the latter asserting that James A. Meeks of his home town, who is a Democrat, had been elected to the House except the indorsement of the convention.

But before things had gone much further Brennan took the floor and said that he favored the convention, because he wished to see the Democratic party victorious in the nation, state, and county.

There were further expressions on each side, but they were mild in comparison to the utterances of Arthur W. Charles of Carmi, former state senator, who represented former Judge Thomas.

"Why don't you issue your indorsement?" he asked.

rate of two cases a minute. Louis Lyons, 61 years old, was struck and killed as he was crossing at Dearborn and State streets. He died last night at the county hospital from the wounds.

Lyons was struck by a car driven by William Callahan of 1485 Elmhurst avenue, owned by Mrs. Mary Callahan of 111 Sheridan road. Callahan was held by the police pending the trial today.

John Borgeson, 57 years old, of 1027
West Washington avenue died in Passenger hospital of injuries received on Dec. 1 at State street and Chicago avenue. He was struck by a taxicab which had been knocked across the street by an automobile driven by R. Arnold of 4722 Beacon street.
Arnold is on bond, charged with assault with an automobile.

Thousand Jam Courts.

Nearly 1,000 offending motorists and judges Walker and Ward as Wilson Wrightman, 42 years old, of 6251 Cottage Grove avenue, a news dealer, died in Washington Park hospital. The man, said to have been deaf, was struck at Cottage Grove avenue and State street on Tuesday night by fire engine No. 61 as it sped to a fire.

Police captain all over the city were using on Chief Collins' drastic orders declared they would "go the way" in backing up the drive of the city forces.

Legal speed limits have been a joke to the pack system for well as on roads patrolled by Chief Collins' men, is declared. Fifteen miles an hour for most twenty-five; twenty has been thirty. If the driver held below thirty miles an hour he was not bothered. But the old order is changed.
Below are the speed limits as set by law and as they will be enforced in the park system.

West park system—20 miles an hour.

Lincoln park system—30 miles an hour.

South park system—35 miles an hour.

On streets not in the park system.

HANDS OF DEATH

The clock indicates the number of deaths caused by automobiles, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

makes the driver liable to arrest:
In unimproved districts the speed limit is 30 miles an hour.
In improved residential districts, 15 miles an hour.
In the loop, 10 miles an hour.
Turning corners or curves where the view is not clear, 5 miles an hour.

Writ Press Driver.

On a legal technicality Superior Judge Joseph B. David granted re-to the bridewell for one year and fined $500 by Judge Walker for driving between thirty-five and forty miles an

FARM BUREAU POLICY CHANGES; OFFICIAL QUILTS

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Walton Petet's resignation as head of the cooperative marketing department of the American Farm Bureau Federation was a shock to the delegates just before the meeting adjourned late yesterday afternoon.

The resignation came immediately after the defeat of a resolution asking the delegates to endorse the National Wheat Growers' Advisory committee, headed by Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois.

Resolution passed 5 to 1.

The resolution was defeated by a 2 to 1 vote and was referred to the executive committee with power to act.
Following the defeat of the endorsement of the Petet-Shapiro cooperative resolution, Mr. Petet offered his resignation.

"By your decision in defeating this resolution you indicate that I am not in harmony with your judgment and I therefore offer my resignation."

President is Re-elected.

The convention re-elected O. B. Bradford, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. J. P. Reed of Minnesota was elected vice president. Both were elected unanimously.

The new executive committee will meet this morning to select a secretary. It was predicted J. W. Coverdale, "discharged" secretary, may be chosen again. It is understood that nine of the twelve men elected to the executive committee were acknowledged members of the Coverdale faction.

One of the largest recent gatherings of law enforcement officers, including fifteen judges, last night marked the third annual banquet of the Chicago Railway Special Agents and Police association in the Audi-was toastmaster. The appeal of all speakers was for cooperation among

Henrici Cakes for Christmas

Without a plentiful supply of certain specialty cakes, to be had at Henrici's during the holiday season, Christmas, in many a home, would not seem like Christmas.

Included among these special adjuncts to Christmas feasting are Fruit Cakes, Honey Cakes, Marzipan and Christmas Stollen.

The supply of these incomparably delicious products has never equaled the demand for them. This communication is to remind old friends and new that a little foresight in ordering will conserve their time and promote their convenience.

It is suggested that selections be made now. Henrici Fruit Cakes and Honey Cakes, intended for the holidays, may be taken home today, as, without special care or attention, they would keep in perfect condition for many months.

As for the class of bakery products that cannot be kept long, arrangements may be made now to have them boxed fresh from the ovens a few minutes before any time designated for your call, between now and Christmas, or on Christmas Day.

Why not Henrici's today, for luncheon and to order your Christmas cakes?

NATURE FAKED!

Thermopola, Wyo., Dec. 6.—I have been an enthusiastic reader of The Tribune for many years, and since I have never heard any one intimate that the World's Greatest Newspaper ever inclined to the yellow, or indulged in nature fakery, prefer to believe that your Country magazine for last Sunday, Dec. 2, is the innocent victim of a crude hoax.
It was induced to print the "Famished Wolf" pictures on page 11.
The depiction shows a couple of men novel pelt gatherers, in approved photographic attitude, posing with ax and gun over two exceedingly lifeless (famished) coyotes, whose frozen "stiff" and stuck up in the snow at proper, spectacular locations within the focus. Coward and peculiar as a coyote is until hunted, I never saw any of their quite so adaptable to photographic convenience as this pair. Maybe the "famished" condition makes them easy.

I have often noticed that after a day or two a coyote has lain around a day or two, the temperature, the coyote itself comes very docile and lends itself readily and with almost human gentleness to the touch or will of man, and it is almost no trouble at all to get it to perch lifelike pose in most any old snow bank (or bunk) for the accommodation of the photographer of imagination, and the resulting thrill of a genuine real picture.

The bandaged head of the "hero" in the lower picture would indicate that the "famished" enemy had attacked with shillalah rather than with tooth and fang, as approved by Queensberry, Harri- et al., for mixed bouts between "Famished Wolves" and "Heroes." Most likely, in striking pose, the gentleman as back-fired, making first aid necessary, while the lad with the "pet hand" probably got his by thoughtlessly grabbing the overhauled handle of the band-pass, spurred, no doubt, by an eager appetite, induced by overzealous battling with the famished wolves.
The had Teddy could not have seen the picture.

ONE HAPPY INCIDENT IN CHICAGO TRAFFIC.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—Halseo in his attack on the literary canon, possibly of the first water. Were he around this morning a picture his pen may do justice to was presented.

At the junction of Wabash avenue and Hawthorne road (southeast corner) stood a policeman, with the whistle pointed in right hand. He was to all intent purpose only the ordinary kind of man, alert to the call. There drifted across him a young boy evidently of country and farming class, a real son of a gun to the ways of this great bustling metropolis. He was shy, hesi-tative, as he stepped to the blue coat.
The next moment came around that man corner, going south, a heavy truck; the policeman, as though it were a matter momentary occurrence, put his arm around the boy and pulled him to the side out of harm's way. That touch of care was as tender as the silky paw of the mother cat for its kitten or the tending of a mother for her child. Then the guardian spoke a few words of advice on how and where to go, the boy upped off buoyantly stimulated by the elopement and our gallant protector another whistle as nonchalantly though nothing particular had happened. Well, say what you will, we have some real men in this little old village and some of them wear the blue of the policeman and the fire laddie.

THROUGH MOURNS FOR PINKERTON; BODY IS ON WAY

Funeral Services Will Be Held Saturday.

Funeral services for William A. Pinkerton, O. W. Pinkerton, head of the Pinkerton National Detective agency, will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. at the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church, 309 W. Madison street. The body, which was brought to this city from Los Angeles, where the famous detective died last Monday, will arrive here tomorrow. Burial will take place in the family lot at Graceland cemetery.

Messages Pour Into City.
Scores of telegrams were received yesterday at the Pinkerton headquarters in this city expressing the regrets of the world. These messages came from every state in the union, also cablegrams from abroad.

In Chicago, where for seventy-seven years had been the home of "Billy" Pinkerton, thousands of persons who knew him paid tribute to his memory. Persons in all walks of life knew the master detective, and his death was deeply deplored. This was especially true of several "old timers" who for years lived off "Billy" Pinkerton's bounty. His "pension" was a long one. "Billy" never spoke about these pensioners himself. The beneficiaries were the ones who told of his munificence.

Known All Over World.
For the last few years Mr. Pinkerton had been a great traveler. He was known in nearly every part of the civilized globe. When in Chicago he made his home with his two daughters, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins and Mrs. William C. Pullman, 123 Lake Shore drive. Mr. Watkins is head of the Chicago Pinkerton agency. Mrs. William J. Chalmers, a sister, resides at 3100 Lake Shore drive.

CHAUFFEUR GIVES CHAPTER TWO OF MURPHY'S LOVES

He Had His Auto Mirror
All Fixed Up.

"Rolls-Royce" Murphy's divorce case yesterday took the stellar place among county courtroom entertainments. All day the courtroom and the corridor outside, seething with curious persons. Each strained his ears to catch the details of the Murphys' separate love affairs.

Mrs. Meta Murphy smiled as she viewed the gaping crowd. James H. Murphy—"Rolls-Royce"—sat silent, expressionless. Judge Joseph Sabath posted bailiffs at the door to keep the crowd from overrunning the court. Bailiffs rapped repeatedly for order as sitters and whisperers greeted the testimony of the Murphys' chauffeur, George Foote, who told of being on the go night and day. He drove Mrs. Murphy, with Robert Maypole and other men, he said, and Murphy kept him out nights with other women.

The Telltale Mirror.
The chauffeur said he worked for the Murphys until he no longer could stand their late hours. For hours he told of gay rides and parties.
Under the questioning of Murphy's attorney, Leslie Whelp, he first took up the rides of Mrs. Murphy. Maypole frequently kissed her, he declared; he had adjusted the mirror on the auto so he might gaze on the affectionate occupants of the tonneau.
Attorney Charles E. Erbstein, counsel for Mrs. Murphy, on cross-examination asked Foote whether Murphy had not always been present when Mrs. Murphy received Maypole's kisses.

WOMEN OF G. O. P. COMMITTEE BACK THE PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—"Coolidge for President" is the slogan of the Republican national committee women from every section of the country, whose last official act, after two days of "sitting in" with the men at committee conferences, was to hold this afternoon a conference of their own to discuss the problems of party activities by, with, and for women in every state.

With the exception of Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edison of California, a member of the executive committee, who is an outspoken adherent of Hiram Johnson, and a few who were noncommittal, women from the north, south, east and west unhesitatingly went on record as favoring the candidacy of President Coolidge for the Republican nomination next June.

Foots said he didn't remember. Mr. Erbstein said Murphy never had objected to his wife receiving Maypole's "brotherly attentions."

The Willow Street Lady.
"Now how about Murphy?" Mr. Erbstein then demanded of Foote. "Did you ever drive any women with him?"

"O, yes," Foote replied.
A "particular lady who lived on Willow street" then became the central figure. Under Mr. Erbstein's questioning Foote admitted he frequently had driven Murphy and the "particular lady" to coffee and other places.

"It was no secret to Murphy, was it, that Maypole went out with Mrs. Murphy?" Mr. Erbstein asked.

"O, no," the chauffeur replied. "I often took the four out on parties."
A number of Oak Park policemen testified regarding Mrs. Murphy's raid on her husband's apartment. They said Miss Ruth Terrill, who was found there, was fully clothed when she opened the door.

MANN JEALOUS OF WIFE'S SONGS, OF 'CHER PHILLIPS'

may be a friend in need later if I want to get in touch with bigger things. Not opera, though.

"Well, dearie, I must close, but I send you all my loving appreciation. From—Julia."

In a letter written from his enforced bachelor quarters at their Lake Forest home to his wife, still at her father's town house, Mann, on the 17th of that April, refers to her musical career.

"Don't, don't, Julie, dear," he pleads, "let your ambition for a new, independent life, as you suggest, overshadow your plain duty to refrain from doing anything that will leave a black mark on little Billy and render him a fatherless boy."

"Dear Phillip—Mere Boy.
In the opening statement, Attorney Edmund D. Adcock, Chicago counsel for Mrs. Mann, dismissed the reference to young Billy as "ridiculous," explaining that his client had met him, a boy of 15, in Europe in 1909; that she had seen him several times during his American visit in 1913, and had corresponded openly, and with her husband's consent.

"Mann," Mr. Adcock said, "was snickered, flew into a rage if his wife touching his private table knife, tossed little details about sending out the laundry, always served himself first, went through a door first, made his wife drive in the hooligan car with the auto top down, because it saved gasoline. He excused even his profanity by saying, 'I am no Chesterfield.' But that doesn't excuse cruelty."

Details Cruelly Charged.
Mr. Adcock outlined the charges of Mann four times having slapped and hurt his wife's hand, of having twisted her hand once, and of having kicked her once in the abdomen, a month before the premature birth of her child.

SIGHTLESS TRIO HOPES YULE MAY LIGHT UP LIVES

There are windows and gas lighting fixtures in the basement flat that house the G— family, but they are unnecessary. The father and the mother don't need the windows. Neither does little Ralph, who has just passed his first birthday anniversary.

The G— family presents a most pitiful case to the big hearted men and women of Chicago. It is one that would bring some real tears to any one who takes the time and trouble to investigate.

The father and mother are blind. They have been blind for years. Once the father had a good position as a watchmaker, but his eyes failed, the sight went out. He went to a free school for the blind and there he met his wife. She too had lost her sight and was studying. She had become blind after working for months and months in what the novels call a sweatshop, making thousands of little stitches each day. These two blind persons, tapping their way through life with the cane, were drawn to each other and soon they married. A beautiful romance.

Another Gropes in Dark. A year and a fortnight ago little Ralph made his appearance in this world. But his arrival failed to bring the cheer his parents had expected. They had hoped their child would be given the one thing they had both lost. It was a pathetic little scene that morning when the doctor told them the baby also was blind.

The year has gone by and Ralph has grown. Just as any other baby learns how to eat, sleep, drink, cry, and play, Ralph has progressed. But now, at the end of his first year on earth, he is beginning to sense the absence of his eyesight. He puts his little hands up to his unseeing eyes and wonders.

To Rescue, Good Fellows!

What Good Fellow is going to give a happy Christmas to the G— family? Yesterday THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow department received the names and addresses of 100 families in which the parents are blind. The story is the same in each case: poverty, want, distress, tears. Are there 100 Good Fellows in Chicago who will put a little cheer into each of these families? Their addresses may be had at

HUNT HATE DIARY WITH OPENING OF MURDER TRIAL

While detectives from the state's attorney's office yesterday were searching for the alleged "hate diary" of Mrs. Lucille Kavanagh, charged with the murder of her husband, Patrick, the woman's trial proceeded in Judge George Keeton's court and four jurors were accepted by the state and the defense. When Mrs. Kavanagh shot her husband in his office at 118 West Madison street, last February, the police stated they found the "hate diary." "There never was any 'hate diary,'" said Attorney Benedict J. Short, her counsel. "That's a police pipe dream. She was trying to write short stories or something. And we'll prove she was in love with her husband." But Assistant State's Attorneys W. W. Smith and Robert O'Connell did not agree. "They insisted the 'hymn of hate' had been written and were making careful investigations to find it."

PROBE DEATH OF OUTCAST BARON IN VILLA OF VICE

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.

(Chicago Tribune Special Service.)
(Copyright, 1923; by The Chicago Tribune.)

CAPRI, Italy, Dec. 12.—The strange death of the outcast Baron d'Adelward in the full splendor of his villa and his "black feast" on this remote island of Capri, which nestles in the soft blue of the Mediterranean below the majestic Mount Vesuvius, has revealed a shocking state of morals. The revelations in this international nest have even made blasé Europe blink and catch its breath.

An old autograph of former Kaiser William II. on Baron d'Adelward's great book in his sumptuously barbaric villa has not lessened the scandal of this second Oscar Wilde affair.

This villa on the island of Capri where Baron d'Adelward and his friends indulged in all kinds of oriental orgies and their "black feasts," is above the famous blue grotto near where James A. Sullivan of New York lived last spring. Since the time of Tiberius, who organized the first orgies on the island of Capri, there are supposed to have lived by enchanting visitors to the grotto.

Becomes Involved in Scandal.

A quarrel over his large fortune, which dates back to the time that Baron d'Adelward's ancestor was Swedish ambassador to the court of Louis XVI. of France and which he bequeathed to some young boys and girls whom he had adopted, also promises to keep this scandal in the Italian public eye for months to come.

In 1900 the rich young Baron left his home in Alsace, where his family had a large estate, and like d'Artagnan, set off for Paris to find adventure.

On the day that his engagement to a young French noblewoman was announced three years later he was suddenly involved in a scandal. His home was raided by police on a charge that immoral practices were committed there and he was sent to prison for six months. He always declared that some of his noble young friends were the guilty persons and that he himself was entirely innocent.

When released from prison, the young Baron found that he had been cast out by his family. He was kicked out by servants when he tried to visit his fiancée at her castle of Maupetit, near Paris. His friends refused to recognize him. He was expelled from all his clubs. His family closed the door against him.

"Glorious Vice, Damn World!" "I will glory in vice and damn the whole world," he swore in a public bar in Paris one day.

A few years later a young Baron de

Fersen established himself in a magnificent villa on the island of Capri and began holding orgies with drinks and drugs which scandalized even the hardened members of the colony. He was the Baron d'Adelward, and he damned his inquisitive neighbors as he damned the whole world.

For twenty years he and his men and women friends revelled night and day in these terrible orgies which the few peasants on the island whispered were attended by the devil himself.

When he died two months ago not one friend watched his body laid away by night nor asked how he died. If the authorities had not become suspicious that he had been poisoned, his passing would have gone unnoticed.

EXTRA 9 MILES DOES NOT HALT LIQUOR ARMADA

Rum Flowing to Shore
Despite Coast Guard

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.] Twelve miles out on the bayside main a rum armada of some thirty boats loaded with holiday booze, brandy, gin, brandy, and wine, is taking the price with a view of getting the bottles out of the hold before Christmas.

Between 120,000 and 250,000 are estimated to be carried by the fleet, and with Yuletide on the water the stuff is arriving at New York faster than the offshore smugglers, with the greatest audacity, can get to the beach, so to get a turnover their cargoes the skippers are engaged in cutthroat competition.

Rum Row Many Miles Long.

The coastline from Montauk point at the tip of Long Island, to points down on the Jersey coast, is the scene of the most active smuggling operations since Volstead wrote his law. Riding a dozen miles off shore opposite Highlands and Seabright, N. J., a fleet of nineteen ships. A flotilla of six vessels is spread along the Long Island shore of Jones Inlet, and a line of five boats is off Montauk point. It is the largest rum regatta since the eighteenth amendment. Ordinarily about fifteen ships stick around in line some twenty miles long two miles off New York harbor, but now the boats are stringing out to weaken the blockade of coast guard boats and federal agents' sampans, coast planes in the service of the runners. It is said, flies along the coast at intervals and charts the position of the various ships for the information of small craft, which put out at dawn.

Admits Smuggling Is Increasing.

Officers of the coast guard admit smuggling is increasing, though the prohibition enforcement agents insist little of the contraband is reaching its destination in the hands of the bootleggers and the consumer. Here is

Rum Flowing to Shore Despite Coast Guard.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

New York, Dec. 12.—(Special.)—Twelve miles out on the bounding sea a rum armada of some thirty vessels loaded with holiday Scotch, bourbon, gin, brandy, and wine, is slashing the price with a view of getting the bottles out of the hold before Christmas.

Between 150,000 and 250,000 cases are estimated to be carried by the fleet, and with Yuletide on the wing the stuff is arriving at rum row faster than the offshore smugglers, even with the greatest assiduity, can get it to the beach, so to get a turnover on their cargoes the skippers are engaged in cutthroat competition.

Rum Row Many Miles Long.

The coastline from Montauk point, at the tip of Long Island, to points far down the Jersey coast, is the scene of the most active smuggling operations since Volstead wrote his law, fitting a dozen miles off shore opposite Highlands and Seabright, N. J., is a fleet of nineteen ships. A flotilla of six vessels is spread along the Long Island shore off Jones inlet, and a third of five boats is off Montauk point. It is the largest rum regatta since the eighteenth amendment. Ordinarily about fifteen ships stick around in a line some twenty miles long twelve miles off New York harbor, but just now the boats are stringing out to within the blockade of coast guard boats and federal agents ashore. A scout plane in the service of the rum runners, it is said, flies along the row at intervals and charts the position of the various ships for the information of small craft, which put out after dark.

Adult Smuggling Is Increasing.

Officers of the coast guard service admit smuggling is increasing, although the prohibition enforcement agents insist little of the contraband, reaching its destination in the cabins of the bootleggers and the cellars and pantries of the consumer. Here is the situation in a nutshell: Along the coast from Montauk Point, the smuggler spots on the lower Jersey coast is a stretch of about 250 miles. To patrol this 250 miles the coast guard has some thirty stations each with eight men.

Twelve miles out is a fleet of thirty ships with boats for sale. Along the shore are hundreds of motorboats, high power yachts and dories and an army of smugglers. Revenue cutters keep dropping out of sight, scores of little boats at once point their noses towards the rum fleet.

Broken Shore Line Aids. The shore line is cut up with indentations which make dodging all the easier, especially after dark. No dock or wharf is needed by many of the offshore smugglers. They can run their boats up on the beach and store the goods in a hiding place until the land runner is ready to truck them to the city.

On the shore the federal agents, the police and the state troopers patrol the highways and grab up truckloads here and there. But apparently it is a small part of the stuff that gets through. The rum runners outnumber the police about six or eight to one, and they are thoroughly organized. In a smuggling operation they throw out three or four lines of scouts, which watch the police and signal when the coast is clear or otherwise.

The odds are so far in the favor of rum runners that the bootlegging fraternity is said to be insuring against its members against loss by confiscation. They can calculate the hazard. It seems almost down to the fineness of actuarial tables.

Most of the vessels in rum row are from the Bahamas, but some of them are direct from Scotland, according to the coast guard, and some are from Canada, bearing Scotch offerings.

As to prices, although the skippers out on rum row are shaving the rates to attract customers, the bootleggers to the fashionable trade in New York seem to be raising the tariff, due to the holiday demand. Prices vary widely. Scotch was being quoted in New York today at $60 to $120 the case, depending on the degree of authenticity of the contents.

TOLD TO LEAVE HUSBAND, POISONS SELF, 2 CHILDREN

Rather than be separated from her husband and two small stepchildren, Mrs. Sylvia Vorse, 18 years old, a bride of four months, yesterday swallowed a quantity of poison after she had given like amounts to the children, in her home at 2131 Wesley avenue, Berwyn. The three were taken to the county hospital and given first aid. It was reported later that they would all probably get well. Her husband, Joseph Vorse, arrived at the hospital a short time later and heard his wife's story. "My mother told me to leave you and the children," she said. "I would rather die than do that, so I took the poison. I gave some to the children so they could go with me."

HARVARD SAVANT POURS SHOTS AT STEEL PRICING

EST A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(Special.)—Another economist poured shots into the defense of the "Pittsburgh plus" steel pricing practice here today in the final hearings in the case, which are being held before Special Examiner John W. Bennett of the federal trade commission. This was Prof. William Z. Ripley, professor of economics at Harvard university, consulting economist of the interstate commerce commission and authority on railroads and rates.

Describing himself as a "practical" rather than a "theoretical" man—for a university man—Prof. Ripley said he agreed with Prof. F. A. Fetter of Princeton, who testified that the "Pittsburgh plus" practice is uneconomic and unjustifiable.

Calling it a "protective tariff," he described "Pittsburgh plus" as a "subsidy or bounty" or a "protective tariff" to steel mills located in "new territory," and admitted that at the beginning of such a practice such as "Pittsburgh plus" is justifiable.

"But that point is long past in the case of Chicago and of a number of other steel producing centers," said Prof. Ripley, who then went on to testify that "Pittsburgh plus" must necessarily exert a deleterious influence upon the western steel industry.

Prof. Ripley's testimony abounded in sharp epigrammatic phrases, in which he described his views. He quoted Judge R. H. Gary as knowing the economics of the situation, but the application of these economics by the United States Steel corporation he described as faulty.

"It is fundamental that every place is entitled to the enjoyment of its own trade territory and the natural advantages accruing therefrom, but this is constantly denied by the 'Pittsburgh plus' practice, which prevents the establishment of new industrial centers."

ALDERMEN ASK U. S. STUDY FIXED BRIDGE SYSTEM

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city council unanimously petitioned congress yesterday to make a study and investigation of the bridges and ferries of the Chicago river. The suggestion came from Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, who is now making an elaborate survey of the bridges on behalf of the municipality. Commissioner and council desire that the government shall have the same information first hand. They want the federal officials to ascertain for themselves the manner and extent to which city street traffic is interfered with as well as all data relating to water borne traffic in the river.

Receives Railroad's Offer.

It is believed by some of the city officials that Chicago's harbor facilities eventually will be on the lake front north of 99th street and in the Calumet district. A fixed bridge policy is a part of that general scheme for water commerce. Mayor Dewar submitted to the city council yesterday a proposal from J. J. Barnett, president of the Nickel Plate railroad, as forecast yesterday. This was an offer to construct a minor—major—part of an industrial harbor in Lake Calumet. The city's plan provides for a basin 1,500 feet wide opening into twelve slips, each 450 feet in length and varying from 1,000 to 2,200 feet in length. The Nickel Plate offers to dredge a channel through the basin area of only 200 feet in width, leaving 1,400 feet in width to be dredged by the city as well as all the slips with this one exception. The railroad proposes to dredge a turning basin 400 by 800 feet at each of two different spots along the channel. In return the railroad asks full title

Far Trims Many of Our Evening Frocks

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondent.)—Fashion is fond of taking out a rabbit as any prestidigitator, and the furrier of today has certainly succeeded in making the old 5 and 10 cent fur look almost as elegant as the more expensive. White rabbit plays an important role in the trimming of the season's fashionable black coat, and is indeed, nearly as effective as the ermine which it frequently replaces.

That the black and white coat is sanctioned by the present mode nobody can retain any reasonable doubt on this score after reviewing the autumn social festivities. These black coats occur in velvet, duvetyn, kasha, and other more whimsical fabrics, and they make wide use of ermine and its rival of humbler origin to complete the picture.

Fur, of course, is essential to the well being of any coat, and a peculiarity of the mode is that the fur border seems to be regarded by the designer as even more vital than cuffs and collar. In quite a few of the imported models we see, therefore, a deep fur border occurring in connection with fabric cuffs and neck line. Another decree of this winter's fashions is to continue the fur border up the entire front closing of the wrap.

Yet this location of the pelt is not obligatory, and we see from today's effective model of black kasha that we may indulge our cuffs and collar in snowy white ermine at the expense of the border. This coat owes its final smartness to a shoulder cape and shirring on either hip.

BY WALLACE ABBEY.
 Players picked for the all-star suburban high school eleven this year were in most cases the outstanding performers on their teams. The backs especially outshone their mates and the ones picked form an excellent combination of speed and versatility. The quality of the eleven this year was not as high as in other years, but each eleven had at least one man in the forward wall who was above the average.

Oak Park eleven, developed by Frank Winter, won the league title and was only defeated once during the season, that reverse coming from Glenview of Cleveland. It has been learned that the Cleveland coaches played five men who were over age and therefore ineligible. Oak Park gets three men on the star team, while Evanston is allowed two and Proviso one.

Charley Raul of Proviso, picked to captain the all-star eleven, is without a peer as a quarter back and master of strategy. It was largely his ability that carried the Maywood team to within a game of the title. He was behind many of the forward passes which aided Proviso to victory and his open field running was exceptional.

Crabtree of Morton is given honor in the position on the second team. He was a consistent player and outclasses Cameron of Evanston and Rogers of Deerfield, two other men playing the same position.

Williams of La Grange and Guest of Riverside are excellent running mates for the back positions. Williams, a dusky colored player, led the league in scoring and almost by himself placed La Grange high in the league standing. Guest is a crafty runner in an open field and also plunges through the line when necessary.

Wilson and Hall at Halves.
 Wilson of Evanston and Hall of Oak Park are picked for halves on the second team. Wilson, did not play during his first year, while Hall was about the best kicker in the league. Winkler of Morton, Anderson of Thornton and Dever of Deerfield were other good half backs.

The location of the next tournament now rests with the executive committee, and it is possible there may be two events arranged, one in the spring and the other in the fall.

THE QUESTION BOX.
 CHICAGO.—Kindly settle a disputed argument about a water-fowl found on the Fox river and surrounding lakes and commonly known as a half-duck. 1. What is its correct name? 2. Is it a protected bird, as some claim?

ANSWER—1. The correct name of the bird to which you refer is the grebe. It is also called scull duck, water witch, dipper, dabchick, and dipper. It is often mistaken for a duck, although it differs in "outlook" say duck, as, when alarmed, the grebe just naturally dives away like a chunk of lead in the water. The grebe (colymbus auritus) nests on the water, and is a common sight on the Fox river as far south as the Gulf. This bird is protected in Illinois along with bitterns, rails, cranes, herons, etc.

PICKING CAPONS ON CITY POULTRY MARKET.
 THE introduction of the capon on the market has added another class of meat bird to the usual run of chickens found on the market when housewife goes shopping for the holiday chicken. It is common to hear the shopper ask how she can tell the difference between a capon, a rooster and a hen.

The capon is much more massive than either the hen or the rooster; his large body extends down behind the big full round breast. The comb and wattles are quite small, lacking the bright red color of the normal rooster or hen in the live bird; they are usually of a pale, pinkish color. When the comb and wattles of a capon are disregarded the head is triangular in shape, running down to a point at the end of the beak, while the rooster's head is almost square, according to A. L. King, a Chicago capon expert.

He has observed that a capon's head is never quite as small as a hen's head, nor are the caponized bird's comb and wattles as large as those of a hen. The feathers are larger, after more delicate than those of a rooster. The tail is quite broad but not carried as high as that of a rooster.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES GAIN ON LIBERAL BUYING

BY CHARLES MICHAELS

Sentiment in wheat became entirely too bearish, and with good buying by houses with northwestern connections that led the selling of the previous day and short covering, prices averaged higher, with the finish at net gains of 1/16 to 1/8, with December leading. The latter acted tight at times. Corn was higher at the last, with persistent buying of May in small lots by commission houses a feature. Oats were 1/16 to 1/8 higher, while rye was unchanged to 1/16 higher.

There was nothing in the news to induce any demonstration on the bull side of wheat, but it was apparent that resting orders to buy May around 11.95 were in the pit, and the local element has been whipped so frequently of late that as soon as any aggressive buying appeared there was a quick move to cover. A local professional also was credited with having bought wheat against sales of corn, presumably closing a spread.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Despite the pessimistic reports from the northwest reporting export business, a large trade was made today that indicated by itself that the market was not as bearish as it appeared. Sales of 600,000 to 700,000 bushels of wheat were reported, and it is estimated that 300,000 to 400,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had also been sold. It was said that the bid for durum wheat was slightly below a waiting trade.

Chicago handlers sold 10,000 bu. of wheat, 100,000 bu. of corn, and 100,000 bu. of oats to the domestic trade, with 50,000 bu. of wheat, 50,000 bu. of corn, and 50,000 bu. of oats to the export trade.

Choice of fancy yearling cattle met with a brisk demand, selling $14.50 to $15.00 above last week's high time, with 1,071 to 1,115 lb averages to eastern shippers and Swift at $13.25, the high point of the year for regular "market" cattle. Some 145 lb steers and heifers reached the $13 mark, while desirable light weights sold strong to unevenly higher other kinds, including butcher stock, ruled weak to low, with heavy weights especially slow. Some 1,100 lb steers went to a Boston shipper at $11.85. Plain 1,200 lb steers sold at $7.80. Comparatively few choice steers sold above $11.50. Calves closed 2 to 4 higher.

Continued excessive supplies of hogs, following the latest week's combined receipts at all markets on record, caused further breaks of 10 to 15c. Top and average prices at $6.75 and $6.50, respectively, equaled the low point of the year, in Jan., when the market was lowest since December, 1918. Although all interests purchased freely, after a slow start, leaving only 13,000 in the pens at the close, market was pressed down by the enormous supply on hand. The 28,450 over from Tuesday, not including the 8,000 shippers that were carried over from previous day, due to car shortage, was practically the largest holdover this year.

Lamb Prices Recede.
A general reaction of lamb values resulted from the lack of eastern demand, with weighty and between kinds unfilled the shipping season. Heavy clipped lambs were practically unsaleable at sharp discounts, while handy kinds lowered fully 50 to 60c. Good to choice wool skins closed upwards to $12.25 to city butchers, with bulk at $11.75 to $11.50, showing 15 to 20c decline. Market closed at the low time of the day, although only 13,000 were estimated for today, against 11,121 previous Thursday. Aged sheep were unchanged, while yearlings lowered in sympathy with lambs. Feeders slumped unevenly.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 12,000 cattle, 50,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep, against 16,000 cattle, 55,000 hogs and 17,121 sheep the corresponding Thursday a year ago.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENRI
Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (Rep., Mass.), majority leader of senate and prominent advocate of nomination of President Coolidge as American entry into the world of nations that tribunal be absolutely divorced from the league of nations.
This discussion today was given with interest in connection with division of opinion on the interpretation of the attitude on the court assumed by the President in his message to congress. Some maintain he cleared for the court with no more than the Hughes reservation to keep the United States clear of entanglements with the league, while others contend President's words give room for the interpretation that he desires divorce the court from the league.
Majority Back Chairman's View
It is understood the position of senator Lodge is supported by a majority of the foreign relations committee which he is chairman, and speculation now arises as to whether the President is in agreement or disagreement with Mr. Lodge and his colleagues.
The Massachusetts senator would prefer a world court upon the Hague arbitration, which sets forth his position in a letter written to a critical correspondent.
"It has always been the policy of United States, and emphatically the policy of the Republican party to promote in every way possible the settlement of international differences by arbitration and through the medium of arbitral tribunals," Senator Lodge wrote.
Favors Unattached Court
"We have advocated in the past establishment of a permanent court of arbitration. I am thoroughly in favor of a world court, but I desire that should be a true world court and not involved in any way in the league nations. I think such a world court could be framed and the easiest way as it appears to me, which is a matter of personal opinion, would be to do what was done at The Hague as basis and to that add the power make a permanent court."
"But I am not in favor of adhering to the protocol unless reservation could be made which would separate the court from the league and make a genuine world court. Whether it can be brought about, I do not know and cannot tell at this time. I may rest assured, however, that the question will be very thoroughly considered by the senate."
Senator's View on World Peace
Mr. Lodge resented his constituent complaint that the United States does nothing for the cause of peace.
"My own policy or theory is that the United States can be of more service to humanity and of more service to the cause of world peace by acting independently," said the senator, "am very proud of what the United States has done for humanity and the advancement of peace since war. We have done more in the direction of securing world peace in the last two years than has been done by any other nation; I mean we have made more substantial and real advances."
"There was the Washington conference, in which we limited naval armaments; and by another treaty ended Anglo-Japanese alliance; which was serious menace to peace in the Pacific, and by a treaty made possible by conference, the province of Shantung was returned to Japan to China."
Ended Chile-Peru Quarrel
"We have also by our good offices brought about, I believe, successful termination of the long and very threatening quarrel between Chile and Peru. We have also secured an arrangement with Mexico, which I trust will restore friendly relations with that country and which is of great importance both to us and to the world at large."
"This is not all but I know of other action which has in the time done as much for the cause of world peace or can show such a real service to humanity."
"It is my opinion that if we have our present attitude and policy, as the United States adheres to Washington's action against permanent alliance which was sustained by referendum, first inaugural when he declared against entangling alliances, and was extended by the Monroe Doctrine, we shall do what is best not only for the United States but for the world."
